Review: Merge's Launch

Hello, Kia Ora, Handwaves to sponsors!

Merge team is excited to share our new launch of MERGE NZ company, which we will be focusing on New Zealand Sign Language (NZSL) promotion, development and offer services related to NZSL education.

The Merge's launch was a success with a great turnout with over 70 guests attending on Friday, 7th April 2017 at Parnell Community Centre. Launching Merge's logos, branding and website (of course, the cake) are the most important and first step of Merge's long journey of hard work. MERGE will be uploading our information, updates, events and NZSL videos for our viewers to follow us on Facebook page (search for Merge NZ).

Together with your kind support, we are determined to achieve our community's collective goal ensuring that all Deaf children, families, teachers, professionals and any New Zealander have the opportunity to learn and appreciate one of our official languages; New Zealand Sign Language. At the end of a day, every Deaf child has a full access and participation in our New Zealand society so your Deaf child would become a valuable citizen with a full right to his/her sign language.

Deaf Student (Meghan Coppage) and CODA, Evie Mahoney cutting the Merge's cake to launch the company.

Co-Directors launching Merge's website. The website will go live by end of April.

A special guest, Shortland Street (Sam Bunkall) celebrity delivered a speech in sign language.

Merge's co-directors: Victoria Lessing (left) and Jaime Brown (right) thanking to all Sponsors.

Merge team will be releasing our website www.mergenz.co.nz by end of April.
You are welcome to visit our website and ask us any questions.